Central Sector Scheme for Containing Population Decline of Small Minority Communities

1. Introduction:

1.1. The population of Parsis (Zoroastrians), a notified minority community under the National Commission of Minorities Act 1992, has declined from 1,14,000 in 1941 to 57,264 in 2011 as per census data. In order to arrest the decline in population and reverse the trend, the Government of India through the Ministry of Minority Affairs formulated the Jiyo Parsi Scheme in September 2013 which was revised in September 2017. Since then, two Impact Assessment and Evaluation of the Scheme have been conducted by the International Institute for Population Sciences (IIPS) and Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS), Mumbai. Both studies have observed that the Scheme has been successful in creating an impact. However, the Scheme needs to continue steadily for some time to stabilize the population.

1.2. The Parsi community has been facing a demographic challenge mainly due to infertility issues and late marriages. The Parsi population has an aging demographic profile with a large number of middle-aged and elderly members. It has been observed that such a large proportion of elderlies in the community are being taken care by younger couples and such responsibility adds to disinclination for having a child, further leading to low birth rates.

2. Objectives:

2.1. The objective of the scheme is to reverse the declining trend of Parsi population by adopting a scientific protocol and structured interventions, stabilize their population and increase the population of Parsis in India.

3. Target Group:

3.1. The scheme is meant for the notified minority community i.e. Parsi/Zoroastrians residing in India.

4. Approach and Methodology:

4.1. Infertility, being the inability to conceive for more than two years, is a complex clinical socio-psychological issue. With advancements in medical science, infertility issues are mostly treatable now. For most couples, the right medical and psychological guidance, counseling and the best medical expertise at the right age provide great assistance.

4.2. To arrest population decline, a multi-pronged approach is required. Thus, the Scheme will have three components:

(a) Medical Assistance: To deal with fertility issues, financial assistance would be provided for fertility treatment to Parsis. Assisted Reproductive Technologies (ART) which includes In-Vitro Fertilization (IVF) and Intra Cytoplasmic Sperm Injection (ICSI) and other modes including surrogacy would be provided as medical assistance, wherever required. The interventions under the scheme will be taken up under strict medical protocols maintaining full confidentiality.

(b) Health of the Community: To motivate Parsi couples to have more children, financial assistance would be available to couples to take care of their dependent elderly family members and children.

(c) Advocacy: Enhancing support for Parsi couples with infertility and family-related concerns involves counseling sessions, outreach programme i.e. seminars, medical camps, publicity brochures, advocacy films, etc. The utilization of social media networks for publicity to effectively reach eligible Parsi couples, ensuring access of the benefits of the scheme.

5. Scheme Period:

5.1. The Jiyo Parsi scheme will continue during the 15th Financial Commission Cycle, i.e. FY 2021-22 to FY 2025-26) with a total budgetary provision of Rs. 50 crore. This is a 100% Central Sector Scheme. The details of the scheme interventions for the five years viz. 2021-22 to 2025-26 are as follows:

(Rs. in crore)
S.No.	Year	Advocacy	Medical Component	Health of Community	Total Outlay

3	2023-24	2.11	3.62	4.27	10.00
4	2024-25	2.11	3.62	4.27	10.00
